ECONOMICS & CATHOLIC SOCIAL THOUGHT: A PRIMER

A three day seminar for PhD students & faculty in economics & finance

June 10-13, 2018 | University of Notre Dame

Led by

Martijn Cremers Professor of Finance, University of Notre Dame
Mary Hirschfeld Assistant Professor of Economics & Theology, Villanova University
Joseph Kaboski David F. and Erin M. Seng Foundation Professor of Economics, University of Notre Dame
Fr. Martin Schlag Alan W. Moss endowed chair for Catholic Social Thought of the John A. Ryan Institute in the Center for Catholic Studies at the University of St. Thomas

Now in its third year, this seminar is designed as an introduction and immersion into Catholic social thought for graduate students and faculty in economics, finance, or related fields. Participants will cover foundational principles in Catholic social thought starting with the human person, dignity, freedom, subsidiarity, solidarity, and the common good, and moving toward applications of these principles to conceptual understandings and ethical considerations involving economic topics such as utility theory, firm and business ethics, wages, markets, globalization, poverty, and development. Participants will delve into social encyclicals, secondary sources, and relevant economics texts.

This seminar is cosponsored by the Catholic Research Economists Discussion Organization, the Notre Dame Center for Ethics and Culture, and the Kellogg Institute for International Relations.

APPLICATIONS ARE DUE FEBRUARY 15, 2018
